British Destroy Berlin's Great Opera House

Germans Admit Most Destructive Air Raid of War on Capital

BERLIN (AP)—The magnificent German state opera house, one of Adolf Hitler's favorite theaters, was destroyed and three palaces were damaged Wednesday night by British airmen in what the high command acknowledged to be the heaviest air raid on Berlin since the war began.

DNB, official German news agency, said, however, there were only six deaths in Berlin.

Emden, Bremen and several other vital war centers in northern Germany also were attacked as well as Bellevue castle in Berlin, guest house for foreign statesmen, the most recent of whom was Japanese Foreign Minister Matsukata.

The high command said the Luftwaffe, anti-aircraft and artillery shot down 16 British planes Wednesday night, presumably over Germany, while a 17th was brought down over the occupied area.

The state opera house was burned out after a shower of incendiaries struck it. Thursday morning a dense cloud of smoke hung over the center of the city, attracting hundreds of the curious. Fire-hose crisscrossed Unter den Linden and the area was roped off.

The former Crown Prince Palace, now a state gallery of modern art, also was hit.

The incendiaries, apparently coming down in bundles, fell on numerous other buildings along the avenue, including the historic Prussian state library, where the attic was burned out.

FDR Asks for More Ships; Troop Transports Held in Readiness

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States embraced Greenland within its hemisphere defense system Thursday under an agreement permitting establishment of air bases and President Roosevelt said it was proposed to make sure the big island would remain a Danish colony.

The chief executive said in a formal statement that the present step, which in effect brings Greenland under the protection of this government, "is a new proof of our continuing friendliness to Denmark."

An agreement to place the island within the scope of America's plans for cooperative defense of the western Hemisphere was signed Wednesday by the president and the Danish minister who Mr. Roosevelt said, acted on behalf of the Danish king.

In handing the president's statement to reporters Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said the agreement had been consummated after the United States "had received information that German planes have been flying over Greenland."

FDR Asks for Ships
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress Thursday for broad statutory authority to take over any "foreign-owned vessel lying idle in our ports."

This authority, he said in a message to the legislators, should be subject to the payment of just compensation. Although the chief executive had asserted Tuesday that he would recommend legislation to permit the purchase or charter of 39 Danish vessels which have been taken into "protective custody" by the coast guard the language of his message Thursday was not limited to the Danish ships.

The president cited a provision of the merchant marine act of 1936 which authorizes him to requisition or purchase any American-owned vessel in time of national emergency or when the national defense makes it advisable. The section provides for a method of compensation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war department disclosed Thursday that all Army passenger and freight transports had been diverted to move troops and supplies between the U. S. and overseas possessions and bases.

Undersecretary Robert Patterson announced.

Wilson Gains on Tabulation in Contest

Picks Up New Votes, Assuming Unofficial Lead of 78 Over Luck

After the morning session saw John L. Wilson contestant, take an unofficial lead of 21 votes over Fred A. Luck, incumbent, in the Hempstead county judge contest, Thursday afternoon's court developments sent Wilson's unofficial margin still higher, to 78.

Court recessed at 3:15 p. m. Thursday to Monday morning, when, Attorney John Vesey announced, Luck's defense will begin presentation of its own challenges.

In Thursday afternoon's proceedings 27 Wilson ballots were ruled illegal and 84 Luck ballots, a gain of 57 for Wilson, which, added to his unofficial lead of 21 at noon, gave him a total lead of 78 at the close of the day.

Votes ruled illegal Thursday afternoon, by precincts, follow:
County Box Six—Wilson 4; Luck 23.
Ward 2-A—Wilson 2; Luck 7.
Ward Four—Wilson 7; Luck 12.
Ward 1-B—Wilson 3; Luck 8.
Blevins—Wilson 1; Luck 3.
Patterson—Wilson 0; Luck 5.
Goodlet—Wilson 1; Luck 2.
Jankajones—Wilson 2; Luck 4.
Pulton—Wilson 1; Luck 3.
Shover Springs—Wilson 2; Luck 5.

Friendship—Wilson 1; Luck 4.
DeAnn—Wilson 0; Luck 1.
Piney Grove—Wilson 0; Luck 1.
Spring Hill—Wilson 1; Luck 5.
Two witnesses were put on the stand Thursday afternoon, W. D. Gathright and W. M. Dillard, both of Saratoga.

Circuit Judge Dexter Bush ruled that disputed C.C.C. recruit ballots cast at the Spring Hill box were illegal on the basis of a supreme court ruling.

Morning Proceedings
Proceedings Thursday in the Hempstead county judge's election contest case, now being heard in circuit court, favored John L. Wilson, contestant, when a check of challenged signed ballots in seven precincts gave Wilson a 21-vote lead over Fred A. Luck, incumbent.

According to an unofficial tabulation 20 challenged voters cast their ballots for Wilson while 50 cast theirs for Luck, making a difference of 30 votes. Luck was certified to the office on a 9-vote lead, putting Wilson in the lead by 21 votes at this stage of the contest.

However, attorneys for both sides have the privilege of proving that the challenged voters are legal voters, and the lead could possibly change hands several times before the case is completed. Observers expressed the opinion that the trial

Croat Revolt Is Reported

Germans Say Croats Have Split Off From Slavs

BUDAPEST (AP)—The official German news agency announced Thursday under a Zagreb dateline the formation of an independent Croat state.

The agency said Yugoslav Vice Premier Vladimir Maccek, speaking over the Zagreb radio, announced that Ante Pavelic, head of the Ustachi terrorist organization which was said to have plotted the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in 1934, would be chief of the new state.

Pavelic has been in Italy since he was condemned to death by the Yugoslav government on charges of plotting the assassination.

The German agency quoted Maccek as saying he himself would participate in the new regime and reported he appealed to the populace to display German and Croat flags on their houses.

It is estimated that 40 per cent of the persons killed in traffic accidents during 1940 and 25.9 per cent of the persons injured were the direct result of drivers exceeding the speed limit.

Nazi Attack Is Feared; British Are Moving Up

300,000 British Troops Reported Massed Near Mount Olympus

By the Associated Press
Fears of an imminent German attack on Turkey, neutral ally of Britain, were assuaged Thursday by government announcement "that it had been found advisable" to move a considerable part of the population of Istanbul.

The announcement followed only a few hours after a Rome radio broadcast a report that Germany's ace diplomat Franz von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, had reiterated "the assurance that Germany has no intention of attacking Turkey."

Istanbul lies on the European side of the strategic Bosphorus, link between the Dardanelles and the Black sea. It is less than 100 miles from German-occupied Bulgaria.

Nazi blitzkrieg forces have already slashed down through Thrace and Greece along the Turkish frontier. Greece's own struggle against the German took on a slightly brighter aspect as military quarters in Athens declared that her army remained intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with Allied support."

Battalions of British flame-throwers, tanks and armored cars newly arrived from Africa were reported rushing in from Piraeus, the port of Athens, for a decisive battle with Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg legions.

As the five-day, old battle of the Balkans neared a showdown "unconfirmed" rumors circulated in Europe that Belgrade, the bob-saucer capital of Yugoslavia had been entered by Nazi troops.

British Coming Up
Advices reaching Bern, Switzerland, one of the few remaining outposts of uncensored news in war-ridden Europe, said British transports and supply ships were bringing fresh reinforcements into southern Greece ports.

German press dispatches indicated the British expeditionary force—estimated at 300,000 men—was massed in the vicinity of Mount Olympus, 60 miles southwest of Salonika near the Aegean seacoast.

Other reports said the British are contemplating a defense line stretching across the Greek peninsula from a point south of Salonika to the Albanian port of Chirna on the Adriatic sea.

A Budapest newspaper said Nazi troops racing across Yugoslavia had established contact with Italian forces in Albania.

Countering an official Greek denial, Hitler's high command still insisted that Greece's "lost army" of the east—trapped by the Germans' lightning thrust down the Vardar river valley to Salonika—was capitulating.

"Completely isolated, Greek forces east of the Vardar are surrendering unconditionally," a Nazi communique asserted.

The Turk Statement
ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—The Turkish government announced Thursday it "found it advisable" to withdraw a considerable portion of Istanbul's population.

The government offered to transport the people free into the interior. The action was regarded as an indication of how seriously Turkey considers the threat of war to Istanbul.

The government's announcement said: "It is found advisable that persons of the following categories living in Istanbul should be evacuated: "Orphans, aged persons receiving civil or military pensions and who are

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

COPYRIGHT 1941, HSA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Bee realizes that work has changed her appearance. That Tony and Vera really do not recognize her. But she knows that the happiness she has found in Budget Fashions must end today. She plans to help some of her friends. A man comes to her to help her in the department. Anthony tells her that the merchandise manager has stolen their big idea, in using it as his own.

BEE DEMANDS A SHOWDOWN

CHAPTER XXVII

"WHAT do you mean, Anthony?"

"I don't understand."

"I didn't understand at first, either," he said bitterly. "But it's very simple. He laughed me out of his office. You and I worked and dreamed and got the samples together and—after he kicked me out, he stole my idea!"

"But he can't get away with that!"

"Can't he?" Anthony asked hollowly. "You see the men measuring for carpet, don't you? I'm still section manager. Nothing else."

"Miss Dane's been telling me what a wonderful merchandising idea it is, and how he explained it all to her at a special meeting last night. New accessories counters have been ordered. Plans are laid out—but nobody said a word to me. I suppose I ought to be thankful he hasn't fired me!"

"The savage anger she had experienced once before in this department came back to Beatrice. 'Are you going to stand there and let him do it? If you are, Anthony, I'm not! I worked on those ensembles, too! That's half my idea! That dirty, double-crossing—'

"She hadn't known she knew such words, and Anthony hadn't known either, for he stared at her. The shock in his brown face stopped her."

"I'm sorry. I—I have a bad temper. But, Anthony, you can't let him get away with this!" She stamped her foot. "Do something! Go right up to his office now and tell him. Go to Bruce Sheldrake! Come on, I'm going, too."

"I thought of that, but we can't prove anything."

"Yes, we can! We bought those hats and handbags and belts ourselves, didn't we? You signed the slips for those dresses out of stock, didn't you? What's the matter with you?"

ANTHONY picked up a salesbook. He snapped the rubber band. He opened and closed the book.

At last he said, "The fact is, Bee, I'm realizing now what a bad mistake I made. I should have listened to the old man. He wanted me to take a job in a bank. I—I've been thinking I'll go around there at lunch time and tell him I've thrown up the sponge. His lips twisted. 'Banks are more ethical than stores, perhaps, and if I get a world-shaking banking idea...'

"But, Anthony—you belong here! You're valuable to this store! The very fact that he thought your idea good enough to steal—why, he must be slipping so badly he's got to steal ideas somewhere! If he were any good, if his job were secure, he wouldn't do such things!"

She grabbed his arm. "You're not leaving, you're going right up with me to that crook's office!"

"Bee, if we do that, you'll lose your job. It's all right about me. As I told you, I—I have a chance at something else."

He looked down at her, miserably. "I didn't want to use any influence I might have—I mean, the influence of friends. I've always thought pull was a shabby way to get ahead. But now that I have you, I—I've got to make more money. And I'll do anything to get a better job. But I'll take time. And meanwhile, if you lose your job—"

"The devil with my job. Anthony, come up there with me this minute!"

She dragged him to the elevator. "I think you should be ashamed of yourself, not standing up for your rights! Where's your pride, Anthony? That merchandise manager has stolen from you. And you'd take it! You'd walk out and let him get the credit for something you worked hard to create!"

The elevator operator turned around and stared. Beatrice paid no attention.

ON the sixth floor, Anthony drew Beatrice into the corner near the fire exit. His face was very sober. He put his hands on her shoulders, looked squarely into her eyes.

"I don't want you to do this just for me, Bee," he said. "I'm all for it, and I'm mad clear through, and I can get another job anyway. But—it'll make trouble for you. Are you sure you want to?"

"Of course, I'm sure!" She patted his lean cheek. "Don't worry about me. I can take care of myself. You'd better start worrying about that merchandise manager. I'm going to kill him!"

"Bee, listen." His arms tightened. "I'll go in by myself. That way, he can't blame you."

"I wouldn't miss it for the world!" But she was touched at Anthony's concern for her.

He said, "All right, if that's the way you want it." His smile flashed. "I might as well tell you the truth. I was intending to come up here and wipe the floor up with him, just for luck, even if I couldn't prove anything. But I didn't want you mixed up in it in any way."

There was a stenographer outside the merchandise manager's office. "I don't know if Mr. Fletcher can see you now," she said doubtfully. "What is it about?"

Beatrice walked right past her and opened the door. In the imposing office, a small paunchy man sat at a large desk. He looked up in surprise. When he saw Anthony, his face hardened.

"WHAT do you want?" he rapped.

"I want an explanation of that co-ordinated clothes idea that was so rotten when I walked in here with it," Anthony answered grimly. "I want to know how it got so good, after I left, that you're going to try it out. I want to know why you didn't play square with me. And I want to know if you think I'm going to let you get away with that!"

"Why, you—"

"Save your breath!" advised Beatrice coldly. "I happened to work out some of the details of that plan with Mr. Bradley. These samples he brought up were things I'd selected. We have the sales slips for everything but the dresses."

Mr. Fletcher got up. He walked out from behind the big desk. His eyes were steely. "An employee of this store walked in here with an idea," he said. "He worked on it. The store likes the idea and is using it. What of it?" His voice was a bark. "What do you expect now? Flowers?"

"But you took the credit for it!" Beatrice cried. "You didn't even see that he got a raise—that his good work was acknowledged—you can't stand there and tell me this is the way such things are usually handled."

"Get out of my office!" Mr. Fletcher turned back to his desk. "Maybe you'd like to see the general superintendent about this terrible injustice," he flung over his shoulder.

"That is exactly what we'll do," Beatrice reached for the telephone. "What's more, we'll see him right here in this office."

Makeup Makes a Difference

OGDEN, Utah —(AP)—An Ogden employer telephoned Weber College's business department: "I need a good office girl but no sex appeal," he advised. Ira K. Markham of the college strove to meet specifications implicitly. He called in one of his best students and sent her down town in school-day, gray-wool sweater, low-heels, ankle socks. Soon she was back, no job. Next day Markham had the girl don her most attractive ensemble and top it off with proper amounts of makeup. Then he dispatched her once more to the businessman's office. The inevitable p. s. seems hardly needed. She got the job.

Who Are These Yugoslavs?

Story of Balkans Extended in 1941 Terms

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — There is one thing about Washington—practically nothing can happen anywhere in the world but that you can find someone here who knows intimately the facts and legends and people and countries involved.

I don't mean at the embassies either. Stiff formality, the demands of diplomacy, make them, for the most part, a pretty poor source of anything but official pronouncements. I mean people who have lived there or were born there and now live here, grinding their own axes and not those of some foreign land.

That is why, when the eyes of the world turned on Yugoslavia, I went over to the bus terminal which (never used as such) now houses the makeshift offices of the Department of Justice's alien registration division and I asked up Donald R. Perry, the acting director.

Perry is a product of the Wharton graduate school at the University of Pennsylvania. He is an economist and expert on finance. For eight years before coming to Washington last summer he was state director of finance for Pennsylvania. You wouldn't think on the face of it that Donald Perry would know all about what some-one described as the Balkans crazy-quilt kingdom and land of unpronounceable names. But a little more than 20 years ago, Perry's name wasn't Perry. He wasn't an American and he was fresh from three years and seven months of bitter fighting in the gallant little army of his native Serbia.

An Epic in Blood
"Their history is not just history," he says. "It is an epic written in blood. For centuries they have striven to maintain freedom, independence and the democratic spirit. The Serbian peasants have an oft-repeated saying, 'I would rather go to my grave than become a slave,' and they mean it."

As the story of the Balkans is extended in 1941 terms, it might be clarified a little by remembering some of things that Perry has to say. In the first place, you are going to read much of the Yugoslavian or Serbian peasants. Perhaps nowhere else in the world does the word peasant (selyak) have the same meaning. There it is a title to be proud of. Eighty-three per cent of the entire population are peasants and there is no nobility. It is the one country in Europe that boasts of a ruling peasant dynasty.

Point No. 2 Yugoslavia really is a patchwork kingdom, made up of Serbs; Croats; Slovenes; Montenegrans; Bosnians and even others. Their main points of difference, Perry says, are concerned with who's going to be sheriff and who deputy sheriff—and the difference of religion. Part of the population is Greek Orthodox and part Roman Catholic. In the final analysis, Perry doesn't think that these differences within will split the country.

On a Busy Highway

In the third instance, Yugoslavia is on the Balkan peninsula which is "the land bridge between Europe and Asia." It has been the main highway of the armies of Alexander the Great, Attila the Hun, Genghis Khan, the Turks and the Crusaders. Bismarck said that no one could control Europe or the world without controlling this land-bridge. Perry calls that "Bismarck's Symphony in 5-B Major—Berlin, Budapest, Belgrade, Bosphorus."

Easter Service at High School

Fifth Annual Sunrise Service Is Planned

By REV. THOMAS BREWSTER

If Jesus Christ Were Dead
If the stone had not been rolled away from the Sepulcher!

If we still had a dead Christ in a sealed tomb! Then our preaching would be in vain, and our faith also vain, and our hope of immortality groundless, lifeless, comfortless, with- out foundation.

Our religion would be meaningless. Our Churches would be Christless, our hearts would be joyless, our lives would be hopeless.

The whole world would still be in darkness—the darkness of supersti- tion, of sin and of despair!

We must confess that things would be very much different if there were no Easter.

It is to celebrate the glorious fact of Easter that the Hope Ministerial Alliance in conjunction with Mr. Roy Anderson's Laymen's Committee has planned the 5th Annual Easter Sunrise service this next Lord's Day at the High School Stadium at 8:30 o'clock to which the entire community is invited.

not engaged in defense industry, por- sons without occupation.

"These persons with their families will be sent by government trains and boats to any part of the nation with the following exceptions: Thracians, Armenians, and Erzeroum."

"One hundred pounds of baggage per person may be carried."

Greeks Still Confident

ATHENS.—(P)—The Greek army re- mains intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with Allied support," Greek military sources de- clared Thursday despite the entrap- ment of some forces in eastern Greece.

The fate of the forces cut off by the swift Nazi drive to Salonika still was obscure but were reported hold- ing out late Wednesday night.

"The main Greek army will strike at the right time and at the right place," the military informants re- iterated confidently.

"The battle for Greek independence first won on Mount Pindus—where the Italian attack from Albania was thrown back last October—will be repeated again on Greek mountains where in past centuries invaders have been stopped."

German troop-carrying motor ve- hicles were "systematically machine- gunned" by British bombers and fighters in the Kilikis and Polycastion areas north of Salonika, an RAF com- munique said, although bad weather conditions interfered with operations. German casualties were described as heavy.

The withdrawal from Salonika, back door to the Balkans, and the destruc- tion of oil tanks and everything else of military value were accomplished before the Nazis reached the city, the Greeks asserted.

This, they said, was made possible by heroic Greek resistance which de- layed the Germans in the region of Kilikis in the Vardar valley.

The German break through in the Struma valley and the retreat of the Yugoslavs, leaving the Greek left flank exposed, made the fall of Sa- lonika inevitable, they said.

BERLIN.—(P)—A German military spokesman said Thursday Greek pris- oners captured in Thrace numbered more than 80,000 but that the "final number will be much greater" since the count is not yet finished.

The Germans declared themselves ready for preliminary aerial thrust against the British on the Balkan front. Apparently Reichsmarshal Goering's air force has the task of "softening the British before German ground troops tackle them at close quar- ters."

An authoritative commentary close to the foreign office declared "it is self evident" that the rail line on the east coast of Greece will be one of the principal objectives of German bomb- ers.

Holy Land Film at 1st Baptist

Rev. Hamilton to Show Pictures Thursday, Friday

Motion pictures of Jerusalem and the Jordan River will be presented to the public at First Baptist church Thursday and Friday nights at 8 p. m.

On previous occasions Rev. William R. Hamilton has shown "Mediterranean Borderlands" and "Palestinian Pathways," pictures which made several years ago while visiting the Mediterranean countries, especially Palestine and Egypt. On Thursday and Friday evenings he brings the last of this series of pictures, "The Holy City."

In the several states where the local pastor has shown his pic- tures, "The Holy City" has been ac- claimed to be his best.

Via motion picture and accompany- ing lecture, Mr. Hamilton in Arab costume will conduct the audience through the city gates and narrow streets of Jerusalem to the "Temple Area," along the Jewish "Wailing Wall" to the native bazaars and modern streets, along the road of the Good Samaritan going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, excavations of the Walls of Jericho which "came tumbling down," tracing the course of the Jordan River from 1100 feet above sea-level to 1292 feet below sea-level with a "swim" in the Dead Sea.

The last reel, which will be pre- sented with lecture and musical back- ground, shows Bethlehem, the Field of the Shepherds, the Mount of Olives, Gethsemane, the "Via Dolorosa," the Rev. William R. Hamilton in Arab costume such as is used by the Mohammedans in Jerusalem today and which will be shown in connection with the motion picture.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

Phyllis Bottoms Brings Britain to You in Book

With the bombing of England, novel- ist Phyllis Bottoms canceled her lecture engagements in America, rushed back to do her part. She has been on the job steadily since, writing in spare moments, sending her manu- script back piecemeal. It is complete now. "Mansion House of Liberty" (Little Brown, $2.50)—is perhaps the most vivid, first-hand account in book form. Such imperishable bit as these are typical, tug at your heart:

"Yes, dearie, all me glass 'as gone," an indomitable woman in charge of a cigar and sweet shop remarked cheerfully. "But what I says is—if you've got your roof, you have got everything!"

None of the Cockneys have lost their wit, danger but sharpens it. A bus conductor, a passenger that he had been bombed out of three dif- ferent homes in ten days. He ended up by saying, "I'm getting to hate that bloke Hitler as much as he hates me!"

Yet there is suffering and terror that stretch behind these flashes of Cockney wit, like the dark background of a storm behind summer light- ning. There were 24,000 homeless peo- ple in Stoney and Bethnal Green at the moment of writing. There are only two deep shelters in this district; and in these shelters there is no sanitation; no heating; no food. In Wapping Old Stairs and the Lime- house region, the shelters are so close to the river that they are always wet. Under the arches earthenware take shelter with the people.

One day my brother, who is a daily worker in London, asked his secretary if she were well. "You look rather white," he observed. "Oh, it's noth- ing much," the girl replied. "Only last night we had incendiary bombs streets of Jerusalem to the "Temple Area," along the Jewish "Wailing Wall" to the native bazaars and modern streets, along the road of the Good Samaritan going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, excavations of the Walls of Jericho which "came tumbling down," tracing the course of the Jordan River from 1100 feet above sea-level to 1292 feet below sea-level with a "swim" in the Dead Sea.

The last reel, which will be pre- sented with lecture and musical back- ground, shows Bethlehem, the Field of the Shepherds, the Mount of Olives, Gethsemane, the "Via Dolorosa," the at both ends of our shelter at once, and when we had put them out we had to dig out some people who had buried—and they were dead. It was the first time anyone had been killed in our shelter—but I shall mind so much when I'm more used to it."

About five quarts of milk are re- quired to make one pound of Ameri- can cheese.

Baby Bond Campaign to Be Waged Soon

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Capital talk: Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has picked his poster for the big baby bond campaign that soon is going to be waged. It's a Minute Man (Daniel Chester French's, I think). Across the poster will be that old fighting motto: "America on Guard."

The pretty Long Island debutante, Sarah Alden Derby, is a secretary in the office of Rep. Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3rd, Miss Derby is one of the Roosevelts—the Republican Roosevells. She's the granddaughter of President Theodore Roosevelt. Says Miss Derby: "I'm too busy with my career to think about either society or politics."

An Alden Year
You can always tell when it's spring in Washington. Days or weeks before it arrives, the powers that be get together and select the queen of Cherry Blossom Festival. Then they go to a huddle with the chief of the Weather Bureau and select a date, which is wrong about seven times out of ten. The error doesn't matter much because whatever day they pick, be it good weather or bad, attracts more tourists than the hotels can accommodate or the store clerks can serve.

The "queen" this year is 17-year-old Nancy Alden (it seems to be an Alden year) Strong. I would almost bet that neither you nor Naheya can name one of her predecessors. Like the cherry blossoms around the tidal basin, fame is that fleeting.

Capital Sidelight
Washington is like this: If Vivien Leigh herself had come to town she probably would have got a mention, but nothing like Elaine Elliott, 18-year-old New York girl, got. The reason Elaine is president of a New York chapter of the "Vivien Leigh Fan Club"—is a dead ringer for Great Britain's contribution to the screen version of Scarlet O'Hara.

She's in Washington trying to get a passport to England so she can "present Miss Leigh with a watch which we have bought from fan club dues." Knowing "fan club" dues, I was a little staggered by the watch, numbered by Miss Elliott's trip to Washington, knocked out completely by her announcement that she was going to England by clipper (if she could get the passport.) What revived me was a call from a press agent. Breathlessly, he asked, "Did you hear about Elaine Elliott?" I guess it wasn't a very bright comeback, but I said, "Yeah, but did you hear about the war in the Balkans?" And he said, "Sure, Pal, but don't stop me now to talk about somebody else's pictures."

No sooner does "Dad" (Claude R.)

Sutton Quartet at Tabernacle

Will Be Featured on Friday Night Program There

Featured on the Friday night program of the Hope Gospel Tabernacle revival will be the singing of the well known Sutton Quartet. Friday night is designated as "Men's Night," and it is believed that the Tabernacle will be filled to capacity for this unusual service.

Thursday night is, "Mother's Night," with the evangelist, the Rev. Wm. F. McPherson, delivering a special sermon to mothers. However, all men and boys are urged to attend this service, Pastor J. E. Hamill said.

In the Wednesday night service the evangelist preached on the "Good Samaritan," pointing out that Christ is the Good Samaritan to a world that is stripped, robbed and left dying, as well as individuals in need of spiritual or physical assistance. Present in the Wednesday night meeting was District Superintendent David Burris of Hot Springs, who briefly of world conditions, stating that it appeared to him the only hope for a world gone mad with war was the return of Christ, the "Prince of Peace."

The Sunday School goal for Sunday at the Tabernacle was 600. More than 500 were in attendance Sunday, and officials at the Tabernacle predicted that 600 would attend Sunday.

Found Antarctic Continent

Lieut. Charles Wilkes of the U. S. Navy discovered the Antarctic continent more than 100 years ago, during a four-year map-making expedition, begun in 1838. He mapped 1600 miles of Antarctic coastline, 200 Pacific ocean islands, and 800 miles of streams and coasts in the Oregon territory.

Wickard, secretary of agriculture, place his whispered approval on some new agricultural product than the Wickard girls (Betty and Ann) give it the kitchen test. For example, when "Dad" said within the family circle that he thought a new patent flour, with vitamins and things, might be very good, Ann popped up with biscuits made of same. With that kind of family test hanging over his palate, you can be certain the secretary is not going out on any gastronomical limb with his home testimonials.

Wars may rage on the continents, but the War of Washington at the moment is whether one may drink standing up at the bar or must take it sitting down.

WE, THE WOMEN

Maintaining Morale Is Seen As Women's Most Important Job In National Defense

By RUTH MILLETT

You are one of the women who has been saying, and meaning it, "I wish there was something I could do for national defense."

If you really mean that, there are plenty of things you can do—though they won't sound very glamorous when you talk about your efforts to your friends. And at first thought they won't even seem very closely related to national defense.

That is, you won't be learning how to shoot a gun, take the insides out of a car and put them back together again. Nor will you be donning goggles to learn welding or any other of the mechanical skills important in defense industries.

Wiseest Course for Women

You'll go right on holding your present place in your community—only filling it better and more completely.

That is what a group of prominent men and women, discussing the role of women in national defense, agreed was the wisest course for women when they addressed a recent meeting of the College and University Women's Center in New York.

They advised women to devote their time and energy to improving educational, health, and social conditions in their own communities in an effort to strengthen morale—rather than to seek more exciting-sounding ways of showing their patriotism.

As one speaker, Mrs. Florence Kerr, summed it up: "I agree fully . . . that it's not necessary at this time for women to go into industry and take the jobs away from men. But it is time to look around, and to do something individually and collectively to strengthen the inner line, the home line of defense. It is not appropriate to consider crashing into business that is already well-manned and taken care of."

The Home Defense Front

It will take more real patriotism for women to concentrate on community welfare work than for them to join new and romantic sounding defense organizations.

But seeing that school children are properly fed, that the sick are able to get medical care, that the young, if not employed, are at least kept busy enough to stay out of trouble, are all important parts of national defense.

And that type of work—not the kind more readily recognized as "defense work"—is the kind that women are best suited to do well.

The modern airliner carries around 50 instruments worth about $15,000. Ten years ago transport planes had less than 15 instruments valued at $1000 to $2000.

Writes Finis to Land Deal

U. S. Ends Deal Second Only to Louisiana Purchase

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Over in the new Interior building—where you can hardly turn a light on without a written permit from the secretary—Secretary Harold L. Ickes is writing Finis to one of the greatest eras in American history, the era of western railroad expansion.

I will try to give it to you in a nutshell. Back in 1850, Uncle Sam needed transportation more than anything else. The woodcutting Iron Horse looked like a pretty good bet. It might even be an improvement on the Pony Express. It not only might be able to get the mail through as fast—it might be able to carry some freight too.

The men who manipulated the railroads looked around, too. They would be willing to stake their all if they just had something big in return. What could Uncle Sam offer? Uncle Sam looked around. Goodness knows, he did have land. West of the Mississippi there was more land than any one ever had dreamed of.

So the "biggest real estate deal since the Louisiana Purchase" was soon in progress. It involved vast land grants on one hand, agreement to complete vast railroad systems on the other. When the history of this era is fully written, it will fill volumes. For 21,500 miles of high iron, the United States gave away 158 million acres of land. That was about the equivalent of all the Atlantic seaboard states from Maine to Florida, inclusive. In addition, Uncle Sam had the privilege on all of these lines of shipping freight at half the established rate. Also, all government employees were to travel on half fare.

Texas Was Excluded

This, mind you, was on practically all railroads operating west of the Mississippi, exclusive of the Texas mileage. When Texas came into the Union, it retained state domain over all its lands. Outside Texas, the railroads could have almost anything they asked for—if they completed a line. Seventy-five of them did.

For a long time it was wonderful. Railroads had gold and silver mines, farm lands, cattle and sheep acres. They built towns and cities—and sold lots. It was the era that brought the Harriman and Hill fortunes and a hundreds others. It was an age that is all behind us now. And what has happened since?

The railroads ran out of land that was worth one hoot an acre and they were saddled with the agreement to carry government freight and personnel at half price. In came the great western federal power and irrigation projects. Government agents, acting for engineers and contractors, bought trainloads of cement, machinery, steel, lumber, and sand—and all of it went to destination at half-rate. The railroads went to Washington with tears in eyes.

Last year congress passed the transportation act of 1940. It permitted the railroads to turn back to the government all their unproductive or unneeded lands and get out from under the strain of carrying federal property and government employees at half price.

Isn't Worth Much
Since then, about 30 roads have turned back every acre, except for rights-of-way. It adds up to about 200,000 acres, or one seven-hundredth of the original grants. Most of it is desert, swamp or mountain top and doesn't amount to much. But it is the squaring of accounts—the end of one of the most fantastic eras in American history—when natural resources were so bountiful that building a mile of track was good for a brace of ranches.

It's all over now. The Illinois Central, the C. & N. W., the Katy, the Rock Island, the C. M. & St. P., the Missouri Pacific, the Frisco, the Great Northern, the Southern Pacific and many others have settled their accounts—turned in the worthless land—and now can charge Uncle Sam the same freight rates they charge Joe Doakes. It may not save the railroads, but it will help.

In Washington

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

Great Stacks of Testimony, Four Years of Bickering, and Supreme Court Ruling Behind Present Ford Strife

WASHINGTON—Behind the latest labor disturbances at the Ford River Rouge works is a record of nearly four years wrangling with the National Labor Relations Board—covering nine principal cases at Kansas City, Chicago, Somerville, Mass., St. Louis, Richmond, Va., Long Beach, Calif., Buffalo, Dallas and Dearborn plants—costing no one knows how much in lawyers' fees, court costs and time for N. L. R. B. hearings. One case went to the Supreme Court. The Labor Board is only a little over five years old and all but one year of its stormy young life has been marked by Ford grief. Its "Ford files" are voluminous, the exceptions made by the company in the St. Louis case alone filling a box as big as an old-fashioned cloak and suit salesman's trunk. The problem is how anyone could write that much, let alone read it.

New Trouble Springs From Old

The present trouble at Dearborn is, in a way, a direct follow-up on the first Ford case, the one that got to the Supreme Court. That case began May 22, 1937, when the company was charged with interference and coercion against the employees' right to organize and bargain, and with discrimination against individual employees by firing them for organizational activities.

Hearings began in July and went through the rest of 1937, a decision and order finally being handed down just before Christmas. Then followed nearly two years of wrangling, ending in a new decision in August, 1939, and the N. L. R. B. petition to sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, a months later, to enforce the order.

The court handed down its decision in October, upholding the Labor Board, whereupon the company took the case to the Supreme Court. It was only on Feb. 10 this year that the Supreme Court denied the writ of certiorari, in effect confirming the lower court's decision.

The Ford company, in compliance with court order, began to work out back pay for rehiring of men discharged for union activity, but that by no means settled the problem. On Feb. 18 the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers filed a new petition with the board, charging the Ford company with new violations of the National Labor Relations act at Lincoln, River Rouge and Highland Park plants.

Speeding up its slow motion procedure as a defense measure, the Labor Board held hearings March 24-26. Oral arguments were moved up to April 5, and if they can be concluded and the board decision handed down in reasonable time, N. L. R. B. will have demonstrated what it can do to speed up the defense effort by handling a major industry case within two months or so. That is, unless the lawyers get to work on the case and stretch it out into another four year marathon argument.

For one thing, the strike may go merrily on and every government agency dealing with labor will find itself increasingly on the spot because they are all limited in powers. While it says in the United States Government Manual that N. L. R. B. "is an integral cog in the nation's program of preventing strife and promoting industrial harmony in this period of mobilizing working forces in behalf of national defense," you will look pretty hard and not find a satisfactory answer to the question of how it can stop a strike like this one.

Await Ford Action

N. L. R. B. is limited by law to procedure best illustrated by what it has done and what it has not been able to do in the nine—now 10—Ford cases. Three of these cases are still in the courts, two await new decisions, three have been decided but await compliance by the Ford company.

For nine months of the last congress, the activities of the N. L. R. B. and its law were investigated by a special committee headed by Representative Howard W. Smith of Alexandria, Va. His committee made more than 100 recommendations for changes of the law and then went out of business. Whether those 100 changes or any part of them would improve the work on N. L. R. B. is a matter of conjecture and your own opinion, based principally on which side of the union tracks you live.

N. L. R. B. has been judged largenounced at the same time that a complete censorship had been clamped on all military information on all overseas bases.

Twenty-six combination passenger cargo ships and freighters which comprised the Army's transport service have been shifted to the new assignment.

In addition the War Department has chartered 10 freighters and Paterson said he had asked the Maritime Commission for more ships.

1941 FORD!

Once more to satisfy popular demand, we're going overboard! We are repeating the offer which recently brought new hundreds of value-wise buyers to our showrooms. Business is booming... we've reduced our profit per car by giving bigger trade-in allowances on cars in saleable condition and making it up on the greater number of cars we sell.
